

Year 3 reading stars

Spring term

The trouble with Daisy (Kes Gray)

The battle of Bubble and Squeak (Phillipa Pearce)

Hansel and Gretel (Anthony Browne)

1 x Dinosaur Cove (Rex Stone)

A non-fiction book about magnets

A non-fiction book about fossils

Once you have read a book you need to create something to show this. It could be a book review, a drawing of the most exciting scene, a cake that one of the characters might make or anything really. Just make sure that you can explain why you have created whatever you chose to do. You need to bring in all of your creations during the last week of term to discuss with your teacher during guided reading. Your teacher will then decide if you have enough evidence to claim your reward.

Year 4 reading heroes

Spring term

A book from author Jeremy Strong

Any Enid Blyton book

A poem by Michael Rosen

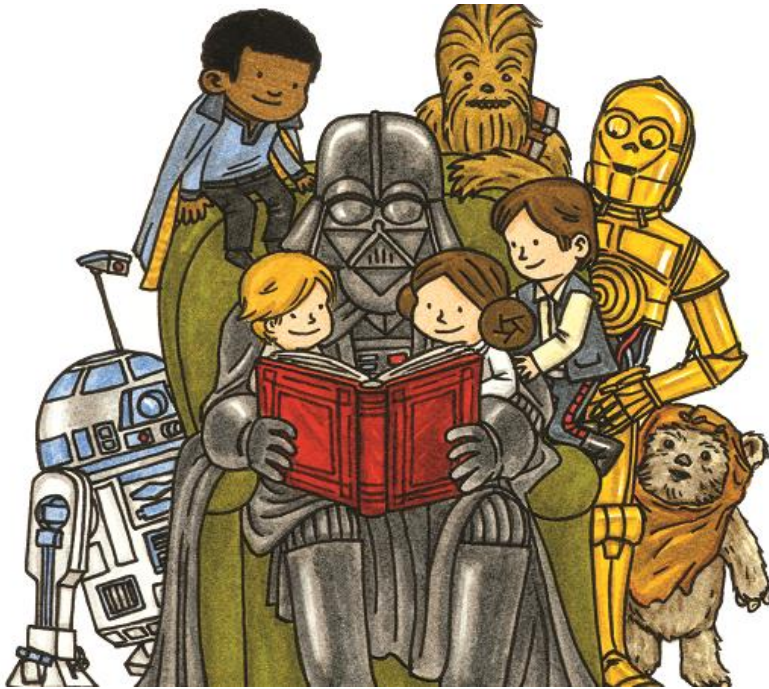

Paddington (Michael Bond)

A non-fiction book about India

A non-fiction book about Hinduism

Once you have read a book you need to create something to show this. It could be a book review, a drawing of the most exciting scene, a cake that one of the characters might make or anything really. Just make sure that you can explain why you have created whatever you chose to do. You need to bring in all of your creations during the last week of term to discuss with your teacher during guided reading. Your teacher will then decide if you have enough evidence to claim your reward.

Year 5 reading adventurers

Spring term

Harry Potter and the Philosopher's Stone

The wolf wilder (Katherine Rundell)

The Little Prince (Antoine de Saint-Exupery)

Any Greek myth

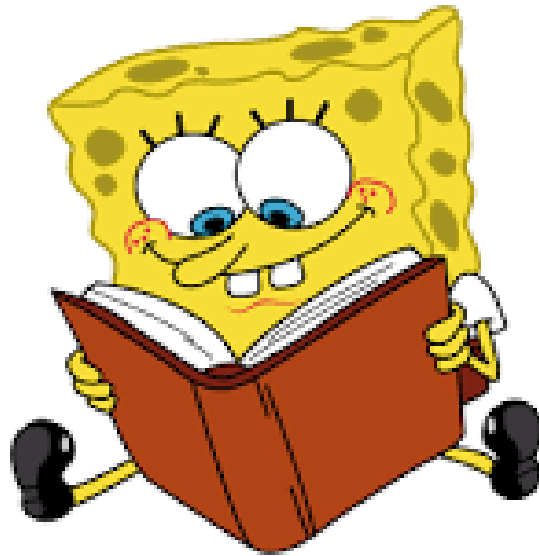

A non-fiction book about life cycles

A non-fiction book about Ancient Greece

Once you have read a book you need to create something to show this. It could be a book review, a drawing of the most exciting scene, a cake that one of the characters might make or anything really. Just make sure that you can explain why you have created whatever you chose to do. You need to bring in all of your creations during the last week of term to discuss with your teacher during guided reading. Your teacher will then decide if you have enough evidence to claim your reward.

Year 6 reading sponges

Spring term

Coraline (Neil Gaiman)

Skulduggery Pleasant (Derek Landy)

The Hobbit (JRR Tolkien)

Holes (Louis Sachar)

A non-fiction book about Indian art

A non-fiction book about Islam

Once you have read a book you need to create something to show this. It could be a book review, a drawing of the most exciting scene, a cake that one of the characters might make or anything really. Just make sure that you can explain why you have created whatever you chose to do. You need to bring in all of your creations during the last week of term to discuss with your teacher during guided reading. Your teacher will then decide if you have enough evidence to claim your reward.