

Loughton School

Curriculum Intent Statement

At Loughton School, our curriculum is designed to inspire children and give every child the knowledge, skills and confidence they need to succeed. We have high expectations for all pupils and ensure that every decision we make has the best interests of our children at its heart.

Our curriculum is broad, balanced and ambitious, with carefully sequenced learning that enables children to build on what they already know, make meaningful connections and develop secure knowledge and understanding over time. Alongside strong academic foundations, we provide opportunities for children to discover new interests, develop their talents and experience learning beyond the classroom.

Our school values are at the heart of our curriculum. We want our children to become independent, inspired, respectful, resilient and creative, developing the confidence to try new things, solve problems and make thoughtful choices.

We recognise that children learn best when they feel safe, happy and valued. Our curriculum therefore supports children's personal development and wellbeing alongside their academic achievement, reflecting the strong pastoral care and family ethos of Loughton School.

We are committed to ensuring that every child can access, participate in and achieve through our curriculum. Learning is adapted and supported appropriately so that pupils with different starting points and needs can develop the knowledge and skills they need to make progress.

Through carefully chosen experiences, visits, visitors and enrichment opportunities, we aim to broaden children's horizons and help them understand their place within their local community and the wider world. We want children to leave Loughton as curious, confident and compassionate learners who are well prepared for the next stage of their education.

Ultimately, our curriculum is about inspiring children: inspiring them to learn, to achieve, to discover who they are and to recognise what they can become.
